'Dyslexia: a troubled past but brighter future'

Rosie Martin

Speech Pathologist,
Speech Pathology Tasmania & Chatter Matters

'Dyslexia' has meant different things to different people. It has been variously adopted by, and rejected by, the scientific communities which research literacy-skills development. The term is now back in use, but in a circumscribed way.

Rosie will examine:

- dyslexia's past – how it has been understood and misunderstood
- the present and future – what we now know puts us in a better position to respond to mainstream & EAL students with dyslexia
- other challenges which impact upon literacy, from evidence-based perspectives

There will be plenty of Q&A time.
